Did you notice that one of the characters was having a hard time with something?
What was it?

DOING

Having trouble engaging your child? Try:

1. Answering first.
Your input will get them more involved.
2. Let them take the lead.
Encourage them to choose a question card and resist the urge to “teach” or correct their responses.
3. Keep trying.
Take a break, and try again.

What would you do if you had to solve a problem like the one the character in the book had to deal with?

DOING
